Bachelor's degree Economics and Management Economics

UFR de Sciences Économiques et de Gestion (SEG)

Bachelor's degree L3

TO GET THERE

L2 Economics - L2 Economics and Management - D2 2nd year ECE (economics and business option) or ECS (science option) or ENS (Ecole normale supérieure option) CPGE (preparatory classes for grandes écoles) Cachan

Prerequisites:

- in microeconomics, macroeconomics, linear algebra (matrix), probability (laws and moments), statistics (mean and variance tests)
- reading and writing skills in English and French; understand and analyse consumption and production behaviour; master partial equilibrium static analyses (prices and quantities) as well as the basic general equilibrium model for a self-sufficient economy (3 fixed-price markets, 4 flexi-price markets) and a small open economy.

ACQUIRED SKILLS

Acquisition of general knowledge in specialised economic fields (work, internationalisation, production of public goods, industrial structure) from a dynamic approach (growth, development).

Ability to measure and test the various predictions or knowledge acquired in these fields of economics through the application of a variety of statistical tools (individual and time series data estimators) to develop an analysis of the interactions and causalities between different economic variables.

YOUR FUTURE CAREER

Within the Training and Research Unit, the Data Analyst Master's degree and the Master's in Banking and Insurance, as well as the Master's co-accredited with UPEC but located at UPEC, the Master's in Development Economics and International Project Management.

Elsewhere, any Master's degree in economics or management specific to Applied Economics, International Economics, Money-Banking-Finance.

National and local civil service entrance examinations.

BENEFITS OF THE PROGRAM

A dynamic team of faculty members who are recognised for their research, and are involved in teaching from the first year of the Licence degree right through to the Master's degree. Close relationships with an audience that wouldn't necessarily make this choice.
